

What's in Store for the High Yield Market in 2018?

Please join us on January 25th for a webinar featuring Ray Kennedy, Portfolio Manager of the Hotchkis & Wiley High Yield Strategy and 31-year industry veteran specializing in high yield securities.

Ray will review the 2017 high yield market and also share his thoughts on potential market drivers as we enter 2018, including:

- Opportunities in the small and mid-cap credit space
- Sectors that represent favorable risk/reward characteristics
- Impact of the new tax bill on the high yield market

Don't miss Ray's 2017 year in review and 2018 outlook.

Read carefully before you invest.

Investments in debt securities typically decrease in value when interest rates rise. This risk is usually greater for longer-term debt securities. Investment by the Fund in lower-rated and non-rated securities presents a greater risk of loss to principal and interest than higher-rated securities. The Fund may invest in derivative securities, which derive their performance from the performance of an underlying asset, index, interest rate or currency exchange rate. Derivatives can be volatile and involve various types and degrees of risks. Depending on the characteristics of the particular derivative, it could become illiquid. Investment in Asset Backed and Mortgage Backed Securities include additional risks that investors should be aware of such as credit risk, prepayment risk, possible illiquidity and default, as well as increased susceptibility to adverse economic developments. The Fund may invest in foreign as well as emerging markets which involve greater volatility and political, economic and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. High yield bonds and other asset classes have different risk return profiles, which should be considered when investing. All investments contain risk and may lose value.
