All investments contain risk and may lose value. Investing in foreign as well as emerging markets involves additional risk such as greater volatility, political, economic, and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. A value-oriented investment approach involves the risk that value stocks may remain undervalued or may not appreciate in value as anticipated. Value stocks can perform differently from the market as a whole or from other types of stocks and may be out of favor with investors and underperform growth stocks for varying periods of time. Composite: The Composite includes all Large Cap Disciplined Value discretionary accounts. The Large Cap Disciplined Value strategy seeks capital appreciation primarily through investments in equity securities of large capitalization companies and may invest in foreign (non-U.S.) securities. The typical market cap range of the strategy is consistent with the market cap range of the Russell 1000® Index. Accounts with significant cash flows ($\geq 10\%$ of beginning of the month assets for the period January 1, 2006 through December 31, 2010, and $\geq 25\%$ effective January 1, 2011) are excluded from the respective month's composite calculation and included in the subsequent month. The Composite was formerly called the "Large Cap Diversified Value Composite" prior to October 2024. (Composite creation & inception date: 4/1/2000)

Index: The Russell 1000® Value Index ("R1000V") measures the performance of those Russell 1000® companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower forecasted growth values. The index assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains, and assumes no management, custody, transaction or other expenses. The value disciplines used in managing the accounts in the Composite may prevent or limit investment in major stocks in the R1000V and returns may not be correlated to the index. Beginning December 15, 2023, the S&P 500® Index, previously included on the report as a supplemental index, will be removed. Benchmark returns are not covered by the report of independent verifiers.

The 3-year annualized standard deviation measures the variability of the composite (using gross returns) and the benchmark returns over the preceding 36-month period ended.
